CUT FROM $15,000 TO $4,000 IN HOSPITAL FUND RECOMMENDED

Local Institution Suffers Along With Rest in Report of Committee

NOT A CENT FOR BUILDING

All Money to be Used For Operation—Recommendations Based Upon The Advice of the State Board of Charities.

The Charleroi-Monessen hospital suffered a cut of from $15,000 to $4,000 in the recommendation for an apropriation made by the house appropriation committee at Harrisburg in its report of 226 appropriation bils Thursday. This is the amount recommended by the State Board of Charities which conducted an investigation into all requests for aid made in the state. Cuts from the amount asked were made in every instance and the larger hospitals in the larger cities were affected just as much proportionately as the smaller ones in the smaller cities.

Those in Washington and Greene counties and of interest to this territory are given below. The first figures indicate the amount asked while the second show the sum recommended by the committee.

City Hospital association, Washington, $12.000. $10.500.

Washington hospital. $25,000. $9,500.

Canonsburg General hospital. $19,000, $4,000.

Monongahela Memorial hospital, $43,200, $20,000.

Charleroi-Monessen hospital. $15,000, $4,000.

Waynesburg hospital, $10,000. $7,000.

The recommendation of the house appropriations committee is for maintenance. Not a cent is to be given this year for building. The recommendation is based entirely on the recommendation of the State Board of Charities, which based their estimate on the past records of the hospital.

The sum appropriated is for two years' use. half for the first and half for the second year. An effort will be made to have the local appropriation increased.

The cost of operation of the Charleroi-Monessen hospital is $500 a month. The appropriation of $4,000 for two years would amount to about $167 per month.

The $4,000 represent an increase over the last appropriation of $500 for maintenance. At the last session of the legislature $1,500 was appropriated.

News Item Incorrect.

A news item in the North Charleroi correspondence on Thursday night to the effect that a son had been born to Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Darmour, is asserted to be incorrect, owing to misunderstanding in reporting.

COURT GRANTS CHARTER BUT MAKES REQUIREMENTS PLAIN

Social Club May Not be Conducted By Local Organization Under Laws By Which it is Chartered.

The court has handed down an opinion in the matter of the application for a charter by the Independent Slovak Beneficial Society of Charleroi, which was filed March 15, by a number of foreign residents of Charleroi. The court has approved the application and the charter is granted. However, the court also gives a word of warning and reminds the incorporaters, who are foreigners, that the fact that they are incorporated as a beneficial society does not authorize them to meet for any other purpose than for which a charter may be required, and especially does not authorize them as a social club to meet and dispense among their members intoxicating liquors. This word of warning is given by the court for the reason that the notion has obtained in some quarters that a beneficial society is protected in dispensing liquor among its members by reason of the fact that it is incorporated.

Coroner Conducts Inquest Into Disturbances of Wednesday Night at Houston

ONE MAN HELD FOR MURDER

Houston's tragedy of Wednesday night in which one man was stabbed to death and another was badly injured, was explained in detail at an inquest, held at Canonsburg by Coroner James Heffran. Frank Raguso was the man killed and Joseph Auro, who is in the Canonsburg hospital with severe scalp wounds, was held by the jury as Raguso's murderer.

According to the testimony offered the trouble started at the home of Mrs. Lugretta Allerendri near the Pennsylvania passenger station. Auro and Raguso who lived in the neighborhood, arrived at Mrs. Allerendi's home. Frank Merani, of Midland, a cousin of the woman, made a call and with Guy Bonnasso, a boarder at the house and Frank Vitondi, another guest, made up the party. Several bottles were tapped and Auro is said to have become quarrelsome. He started to squabble

RECALL USED BY GOVERNOR BRUMBAUGH ON PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONERS

Seven Nembers of State Board May Loose Places Through Withdrawal of Appointments by the State Executive

Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh Thursday startled the legislature by sending a letter to the senate withdrawing the seven appointments made on the public service commission by former Governor John K. Tener. This action came without warning and stirred up more excitement among the members than anything that has occurred since the governor took office.

There may be a clash between the senate leaders and the governor over the withdrawal although it is not anticipated.

There is a general feeling that the action has a close bearing on the local option fight.

The seven commissioners are: Former Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker of Montgomery county, president; F. Larue Tone, Pittsburg; Emory Johnson, Philadelphia; Milton J. Brecht, Lancaster; Charles F. Wright, Susquehanna; Frank M. Wallace, Erie, and Walter H. Gaither, Pittsburg.

The communication was referred to the Executive Nominations Committee of which Senator W. E. Crow is chairman. For the present he takes the position that the nominations remain in the hands of the senate until the committee and the senate acts on the communication of the governor.

Attorney General Francis Shunk Brown says that the moment the senate received the letter from the governor, the nominations were returned automatically to the executive. He says Mr. Brumbaugh now is free to send in new appointments, but the Public Service Commissioners will continue to perform their duties as they are commissioned until the end of this legislative session or until their successors are appointed and qualify.

PFLEGHARDT'S OPENING ONE OF BEST EVER HELD

Immense Crowds Visit Popular Fallowfield Avenue Store Thursday Afternoon and Evening—Music And Dancing Features.

Pfleghardt's annual spring opening was held Thursday afternoon and evening at his large and popular furniture store on Falloweld avenue, and crowds rivaling in number those of past openings visited the store, and viewed the beauties there to be seen.

There was a pretty arrangement on all floors. The first floor was given over largely to the splendid parlor and dining room furniture display together with "den" appointments and pianos. Here also was a Victrola display and during the hours of the opening Victrola music was furnished.

Crowds were ushered to the elevator, and from there hurried to the third floor, where at one end was located a desk from which souvenir wall pockets were distributed. On the second floor space for dancing was cleared and this proved a popular diversion both afternoon and evening. In the evening especially was the dancing floor crowded. An orchestra furnished music.

Mr. Pfleghardt was assisted not only by his regular staff of employes, but by visitors who represented furniture and music houses. His opening was one of the most successful and best attended ever held.

Disturbances the Fore Part of Week Are at End and Peace Reigns

FEENEY CARES FOR "FAMILY"

Local Man Cares for 39 Persons Released From Imprisonment and Takes Them to Their Homes After Treating to Supper.

Fredericktown, which was marked with disturbances the forepart of the week when an attempt was made to start the Vesta No. 5 mine in spite of a disagreement over the checkweighman, is today a quiet and peaceful community. About 700 miners are at work and from evidences will continue at work under conditions fixed by mine officials of the Pittsburg district and officials of the Vesta Coal company.

William Feeney of Charleroi, who was appointed by the district miners' organization to have general supervision of the details of settlement of the controversy, was in Washington Friday and effected the release of those who had been arrested for the disturbances. He brought them back on a car that reached Charleroi after four o'clock in the afternoon, and went through to Fredericktown with them.

In the party with Mr. Feney was a large crowd, numbering 39, this including six children. With his "family" he attracted much attention. He took them to a restaurant at Brownsville and purchased a good supper for all, then went to Fredericktown in the evening, where the members of the party returned to their homes and Mr. Feeney went to a hotel.

Some of the details of the settlement of the controversy remain yet to be worked out, but they will be given attention as rapidly as possible.

GOOD ROADS' DAY.

Among the counties interested in the observance of Good Roads' Day is Lawrence, and this is what the New Castle Herald has to say of the matter:

"The Lawrence County Good Roads Association, in the proclamation issued, sets apart May 26 as Good Roads' Day. That day has already been set aside by the state and in conforming to the general order the city and county are merely furthering a state-wide movement. But so far as the city and county are concerned they may act as a unit, and so serve a purpose, of their own, as well as to assist in the state-wide concerted effort.

"Here is the opportunity to test community patriotism. Every man who believes in his city and county will do something to contribute to their improvement; and the betterment of highways is a fundamental.

"The activities need not be confined to the farmers and laborers, nor should our kid-gloved city folks meet unofficial conscript to service with a substitute. Every able-bodied man should get out and give a lift, himself. Particularly is this true of automobile owners since they are peculiarly the beneficiaries. Why not get them, or rather urge them, to take their autos out for the day laden with picks and shovels, and less fortunate enthusiasts who otherwise could be compelled to walk?

"Even the fair sex can help. Make the day a day of pleasure as well as a constructive work day. Let the wives sisters and sweethearts prepare lunches, and coffee, and feed the rollers at eleven and five.

"Above all let's not get the idea that we can build good roads by speaking about it and writing about it. Everybody can put enthusiasm into a good roads address, but it requires more hardihood if less mental effort to interpret the sentiment through a hickory handled matack."

POLICE COURT "JUSTICE"

"Many people are going wild over the possibilities of making money in the sensational developments that may take place in Bethlehem Steel, but there was an operation yesterday in one of the Pittsburg police courts which seems to offer opportunities to make money on an even greater scale than possibly the wildest plunger in Bethlehem Steel ever imagined, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. A man reported to the police that while calling on a friend in Spring way at 11:45 o'clock in the morning he had been bound, gagged and blindfolded by three men who robbed him of $115 and a gold watch valued at $25. Another man arrested on suspicion with the case was fined by Magistrate Kenna $25 or 30 days in jail. Suppose, for argument sake, that he got the $115, after paying the fine he would still be $90 ahead, to say nothing of the watch!

"This sort of thing must tend to encourage the holdup profession, and it is not surprising we read about so many holdups. It is, moreover, a pertinent illustration of the police court methods. It is just such rule of thumb administration of "justice" that was made in these columns yesterday morning. It is just such rule of thumb administration of "justice" that is arousing public sentiment to the need of scientific judicial methods in the primary courts. Here was a man complaining that he was held up and robbed at noonday. Another man was arrested on suspicion and fined a ridiculously small sum and the ends of police court "justice" were assumed to have been satisfied. If there was any warrant for fining this prisoner in connection with the holdup it should have been sufficient to have him held for court. If there was not sufficient evidence to hold him for court, why was he fined [illegible] miss fourth."

[illegible] many cases "[illegible]" disposed of in a similar manner in the police courts. This [illegible] thing covers a multitude of sins, ignorance, and commission. Under the guise of confession of guilt, [illegible] address and carelessness in the [illegible] the town to be taken into [illegible] gets a [illegible] gives him power in the [illegible] of the police courts and should be dealt with emphatically a step toward [illegible] part of the police court system.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

In Kansas City they tell of a broker who moved from the city out into the country. He went out some distance and since the railway was poverty stricken and the service consequently poor, he traveled to and from town by automobile.

After a time he decided to go in for chicken raising and ordered a patent chicken coop. On the day it was expected to arrive he set out in a dray to fetch it from the freight office. He reached the railway station—which, by the way, he had never seen—after an hour's drive.

No one was in sight, but there was his chicken coop. With his man's asistance he soon had it on the dray, and set off for home. He had proceeded but a few rods, however, when he encountered a man in uniform with the title "Station Master" on his cap.

"What have you got on that dray?" demanded the station master, excitedly.

"My new chicken coop."

"Chicken coop, nothing. You're carrying off Blankvill Junction."

Some time ago little Willie wandered into the house with a dejected look and dropped into a big chair. Evidently all had not gone well with him. Finally his mother asked him what was the matter with him.

"Nothing," was the thoughtful rejoinder of the disturbed youngster, "only I was just wondering what we are all in this world for."

"Why, you should know that, Willie," returned the fond parent. "We are put here to help others, of course."

"Um," was the perplexed response of Willie. "Then what are the others put here for?"

"No, sirree," replied the station agent. "There ain't been no liquor in this town since Lem Hooks tried to get rid of the grasshoppers last summer."

"What was the trouble?" asked the stranger.

"Well," replied the station agent, "we had a plague of grasshoppers, and Lem Hooks thought it would be a good scheme to poison his corn and kill off the hoppers. But Lem had a barrel of liquor in his cellar, and he drew a bucket of liquor, thinking he was drawing it out of the barrel of poisoned syrup. He soaked his corn and the hoppers made for it. They ate a few grains of the liquored corn and a little of the liquored bran. And then things began to happen. The hoppers got drunk and went around looking for trouble. The hoppers whipped every rooster in town and ran all the dogs into the next county. Then the hoppers got to fighting among themselves and fought until they were all killed. And we took an ax and busted up Lem's barrel of liquor, and there ain't been none here since."

Oil Treatment for Stomach Troubles

A simple prescription made up of a combination of pure vegetable oils is producing wonderful results for sufferers from stomach, liver and intestinal troubles. The remedy, which is said to have originated in France, where it has been used for years by the peasantry, was introduced into this country by George H. Mayr, a leading Chicago druggist, who cured himself of severe stomach, liver and intestinal troubles by its use. Those who have used it say the first dose is sufficient to convince any one of its remarkable merit, and that within twenty-four hours the sufferer feels like a new person. This medicine, which has become known as Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, is sold by leading druggists everywhere with the positive understanding that your money will be refunded without question or quibble if ONE bottle fails to give you absolute satisfaction.

AMONG THE THEATRES

COYLE—CHARLEROI.

There were many good features of the motion picture program shown at the Coyle theatre this week. Two Paramount pictures were shown, Tuesday. William Crane, a celebrated actor was featured in "David Harum," a play taken from the book by the same name. The scenes were laid in the rural districts of central New York. The ways and customs of the plain country people proved much amusement. Thursday "The Love Route" was shown. This picture was staged in the west and many of the picturesque spots of California were shown. The story dealt with the constructing of a railroad over land owned by a young girl who opposed the movement. The actual construction of a railroad and a fight between railroad workers and cowboys were among the most striking scenes.

MAJESTIC—CHARLEROI

By engaging Charles Sumner Wyatt, the Charleroi man who is known far and wide in the musical world as a baritone operatic singer, Manager Megown this week made a ten strike. Mr. Wyatt sang only on Thursday night, but he appeared three times on that evening to the delectation of the audiences gathered there. Mr. Wyatt has had operatic training abroad but has been singing in his home land. The moving picture program at the Majestic this week was exceptionally good. One of the features was the four-part production "The Hound of the Baskervilles", from A. Conan Doyle's book of the same name. Another feature was "Shore Acres", which was presented on Wednesday. This was a five part production with Charles Stevenson in the leading role.

LYRIC—CHARLERIO

This week Charles Chaplin, who is one of the funniest individuals in the movies today, was presented in one of his best and most popular comedies. "The Champion". In this film Chaplin was a champion boxer, and he was in the language of the street, a "pippin." He was presented in his picture on Tuesday. On Monday a three reel Lubin. "The Hermit of Bird Island", was a charming feature, holding interest with the one reel Kalem, "Love, Oil and Grease," a comedy. With the Chaplin picture on Tuesday was presented the one reel Lubin, "Her Martyrdom", and the Hearst-Selig weekly. Thursday was a good day when a two part Biograph, "Aurora Floyd" and a one reel Vitagraph. "The Barrier of Faith" were shown.

PALACE—CHARLEROI.

Special feature pictures and an excellent vaudeville program featured the week at the Palace theatre. On Monday the Alliance program company feature was a Panorama of San Francisco. Wednesday Lillian Russel the well known actress enacted the leading role in "Wildfire", a story centered around the race course. The last three days of the week one of the best vaudeville programs of the season was presented. The Stroud Trio featuring baby Violet, one of the most clever child actresses of the American stage presented a splendid singing and dancing number. De Fay and Moore amused with singing and comedy. Kahawi, a Hawaian musician, entertained with popular music played upon unique instruments. The attraction at the Palace for Monday will be "America."

A CUP OF COFFEE.

It Has No Value as Food, but It Has a Stimulating Effect.

The infusion of coffee presents practically very little material that is of direct nourishing value, says a writer in the London Tablet, but by diminishing nervous fatigue, by virtue chiefly of the caffeine present, it may increase muscular power. It is not itself a builder of tissue. The use of coffee after dinner, it is of interest to note, is justified in a large number of cases by the fact of its stimulating effect upon the vital centers and it is said to serve to some extent as an antidote to alcohol.

It is commonly claimed to remove drowsiness. As a matter of fact, in many subjects it produces drowsiness, but this is usually followed by marked wakefulness. The practice of drinking coffee after a meal for the sake of the stimulus which is experienced has much to be said in its favor dietetically.

There is no reason for supposing that coffee possesses any value as a food. The berry contains a quite important proportion of fatty substances (12 per cent average), but these are necessarily excluded from the infusion, as, owing to their insolubility, they remain in the "grounds."

According to our analysis, the protein contents of a cup of coffee are small, approximating to 1.25 per cent of the coffee extracted. This amount can have little dietetic significance. There is also a trifling quantity of sugar present, besides traces of alcohol, which again can possess no importance from a physiological point of view.

WOOD FOR VIOLINS.

Maple Is the Best and Is What the Old World Famed Makers Used.

In the finest violins the body is made of white maple. In cheap ones violet ebony is used. In medium priced ones alternate leaves of the two are employed. The best wood of all is that of the spicea, a tree resembling a fir in general appearance, which grows in central and northern Europe, but musical instrument makers set special value on that from the Vosges mountains. Its wood is most homogeneous and has the advantage over all others that there is scarcely any difference between the sap wood and the heart.

Violet ebony, which comes from Brazil, Africa and India, is much used for pianos. True ebony is now so expensive that it is reserved for nuts and twisters.

Sycamore maple, somewhat less homogeneous than white maple and hence less sonorous, is employed chiefly in making mandolins.

The wood of trees from high altitudes and a severe climate is much better than that from plains and warmer countries for all purposes in which sonority is desired. And it should have had not less than 200 or 300 years of growth, and its concentric circles should be no more than two or three millimeters apart.

The ancient violin makers, Stradivarius, Amati, Guarnerius and the others, used the finest and best seasoned maple, and this, with their perfect varnish, is why their violins have lasted so long.—New York World.

The Seven Wise Men of Greece.

The seven wise men of Greece were Thales of Miletus, Periander of Corinth, Cleobulus of Lyndus, Chilon of Lacedaemon, Solon of Athens, Bias of Prienne and Pittacus of Mitylene. Some fishermen of Miletus sold a draft of fishes to a bystander. When the net was drawn in it contained a golden tripod, and the purchaser claimed it was his, while the fishermen contended that they sold only the fish that might be in the net. The dispute was referred to the oracle of Delphi, who awarded the tripod to the wisest man in Greece. Thereupon it was taken to Thales, who declined it and suggested that it be given to Bias. He in turn refused to accept it, and thus it was successively declined by all the seven, and they were thereafter known as the seven wise men of Greece.

Beltane.

In the highlands of Scotland and in Ireland May 1 was called Beltane. This was the name of an ancient pagan festival, traces of which have survived to this day. The name is still used for May day in Gaelic Scotland. It is said that the druids on that day used to make two fires with great incantations and drive their cattle between them as a safeguard against disease.

Women Everywhere

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Women from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from all sections of this great country, no city so large, no village so small but that some woman has written words of thanks for health restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No woman who is suffering from the ills peculiar to her sex should rest until she has given this famous remedy a trial. Is it not reasonable to believe that what it did for these women it will do for any sick woman?

Wonderful Case of Mrs. Crusen, of Bushnell, Ill.

BUSHNELL, ILL.—"I think all the trouble I have had since my marriage was caused by exposure when a young girl. My work has been housework of all kinds, and I have done milking in the cold and snow when I was too young to realize that it would hurt me. I have suffered very much with bearing down pains in my back and such miserable pains across me, and was very nervous and generally run down in health, but since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my back never hurts me, my nerves are stronger, and I am gaining in health every day. I thank you for the great help I have received from your medicine, and if my letter will benefit suffering women I will be glad for you to print it."—Mrs. JAMES CRUSEN, Bushnell, Illinois.

A Grateful Atlantic Coast Woman.

HODGDON, ME.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached. I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWENS, Hodgdon, Maine.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

JAPANESE COURT TRIALS.

The Judges, Not the Lawyers, Question the Witnesses.

The defendant in a Japanese court was testifying in his own behalf. He stood directly in front of the presiding judge, not ten feet distant from him, and answered his questions in a clear voice, without any apparent hesitation. The judge seemed conversant with the case, for he put questions rapidly, giving a forty minutes' period of cogitation after each answer. Occasionally one of the associates of the judge suggested and talked to the president, and once or twice the defendant's counsel asked the court to put a certain inquiry. The whole proceeding—and the same held true of those in several other courts I visited—was conducted in a quiet, colloquial way. In every instance I was impressed with the simple, business-like atmosphere.

Some of the Japanese lawyers with whom I have talked say that they feel that very often the court does not elicit all the facts and that our system of having witnesses questioned by counsel would be better, but on the other hand some lawyers maintain that better results are realized by the system which puts upon the court the duty of getting at the truth, maintaining that the witnesses are more apt to talk freely to the court than to the lawyer of the opposite side who is engaged, as they think, in trying to make them out liars.

I came away quite favorably impressed with what I saw and wondering whether on the whole in 95 per cent of the cases a decision by three judges trained in the investigation of facts would not be as nearly right as the verdict of twelve citizens casually gathered in from the general community.—George W. Wickersham in Case and Comment.

COAXING THE FURNACE.

Try Gentleness and the Uplift and Kindly, Soothing Words.

Treat your furnace kindly. Let your watchwords as a furnace tender be gentleness and uplift. Be firm with your furnace but always gentle. Some persons imagine that the way to make a furnace behave properly is to first shake it violently and then maul the life out of the remaining coals with the poker. They try chastisement when they should try gentleness and uplift and only succeed in packing the coal harder and destroying ventilation, the secret of successful furnace tending.

Nothing responds more readily to uplift than does a furnace fire. When in the early morning you wish to arouse the furnace fire from its slumbers, you should first shake it gently, then gently tickle the ribs of the grate with the poker to make ventilation more perfect and then crack the top crust with a lever like uplifting use of the poker. In a minute the fire will be wide awake and in good humor, laughing and sticking out its tongues of flame at you in merriment.

Never swear at your furnace, no matter how it annoys you. That will make it sulky and obstinate. You never saw a furnace which was sworn at often which was not frequently sulky and obstinate. Now, did you? It is advisable to take the directly opposite tack. I know a man who always addresses his furnace as "sweetheart" or "darling," and he assures me the plan works to perfection. "Maybe it doesn't really make the furnace warm up the way it seems to," he frankly admits. "Maybe the mere suggestion just keeps me from losing my temper and hammering my fire to pieces. But, anyway, the results are excellent. Savvy?"—Lee Shippey in Judge.

Aisle on the Car In a Wreck.

A veteran railroad man gave a piece of valuable advice not long ago.

"If you ever get into a wreck," he said, "and have time to follow out this suggestion, remember this: Always stand in the aisle. Most of the injuries that are suffered occur because the victim is crushed between the seats. If you are in the aisle you may be thrown forward and bruised a little, but there is much less chance of receiving serious hurts. It isn't always possible to get out of your seat before the crash comes, but if it is follow that advice."—Pittsburgh Press.

Dome of the Rock.

The name "Dome of the Rock" is one that has been conferred on the celebrated mosque of Omar, at Jerusalem. It stands on Mount Moriah on the site once occupied by the temple of Solomon. Immediately under its dome an irregular shaped rock projects above the pavement. This rock was the scene of many Scriptural events and has been greatly revered for ages by Jews and Mohammedans.

NAPOLEON VALUED TIME.

He Might Have to Lose Battles, but He Would Not Lose Minutes.

After forcing the army of Sardinia back toward Turin, Napoleon had scarcely taken possession of the beautiful Palace Salmatori at Cherasco, thirty-five miles from the Piedmontese capital, when an aged marshal from the Sardinian side came and informed the little general of the French that the king was about to propose terms of peace.

"Terms!" shouted the young commander in chief in startling tones, as he pounded the desk, "it is I who name terms. If you don't accept them at once Turin is mine tomorrow!"

Although the directory, sitting in far away Paris, had reserved the right for themselves and their trained diplomats to accept or reject terms, the young general could not delay operations for weeks while messengers were sent back and forth between the camp and the capital, so Bonaparte took it upon himself to arrange an armistice. He called a halt to all sparring for time by drawing out his watch and, tapping the dial with his forefinger, ordered them to sign immediately, remarking:

"I may lose battles, but I will not lose minutes."—Condensed From "In the Path of Napoleon," by James Mangan.

His Indorsement.

The late Lord Roberts once sent his orderly to the bank to cash a check, says Pearson's Weekly, and the clerk wanted it indorsed.

"What for?" demanded the soldier.

"Well, it's the rule, and I can't pay you the money until you do indorse it," he was told.

"Oh, all right," grumbled the messenger. So he took back the check and bit the end of a pen in deep meditation for a minute or two. Then he wrote this:

"I beg to say that I have known Lord Roberts for several years, and he has proved himself times without number to be as brave as a lion, but always kindly considerate to those who serve under him. And I have, therefore, great pleasure in respectfully indorsing his check."

Difficulties of Pronunciation.

What is the most difficult English place name for a foreigner to pronounce? That is a question suggested by a writer in the London Observer. He plumps for Southampton as the most difficult "port of call" for the Frenchman bound for England. Obviously it cannot be spelled phonetically, as there is no "th" in French. We all have these little international difficulties. But the Frenchman gets over the sea to Southampton by calling it "Sudonton."

A Billion Dollars.

"I wonder if we realize when we talk of a billion dollars what an enormous sum of money it means. We all know how rapidly an expert counter of coins will manipulate them. You can scarcely follow the motion of his fingers as he shifts the coins from one pile to another and counts them. The treasury experts will count 4,000 silver dollars in an hour and keep it up all day long, but that is their limit.

"Working eight hours a day, then, an expert counter of coins will count 32,000 silver dollars in a day, but how long will it take him at that rate to count a million dollars? Thirty-one days. But that is only the beginning of the measurements of great figures, for if this same man were to go on counting silver dollars at the same rate of speed for ten years he would find that he had counted 100,000,000 of them and that to count a billion dollars would require 102 years of steady work at the rate of eight hours a day during every working day of every one of the 102 years."—O. P. Austin, Former Chief of the Bureau of Statistics.

At Night In Africa.

Stewart Edward White, writing in the American Magazine on lion adventures, comments as follows on the ravages of wild animals in Africa after nightfall.

"We spent the short evening each in his own fashion, I in my canvas chair smoking, the men squatted on their heels around their tiny fires eating quantities of meat and corn meal. Outside our little dome of light the night businesses of the veldt went forward. Only the most formidable or the most insignificant creatures raised their voices except in alarm or warning. Lions roared; insects hummed and chirped. Out there in the dark was a different world from that in which we moved so freely during the daylight hours—a dangerous, tragic world. Next day we would find evidences of the fact. I have seen killed by lions the remains of every sort of creature except buffalo and rhinoceros. Lions are said occasionally to kill even buffalo, though rarely."

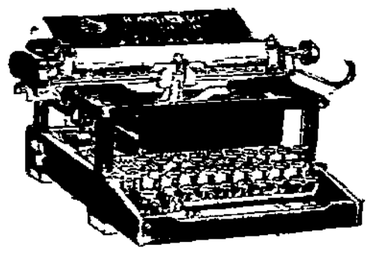
Why this man bought a Remington Junior Typewriter



"I have been investigating several of the recent makes of machines, seeking for one of simple construction for ordinary manuscript and letter writing. I was nearly ready to buy a machine of another make when I just happened to see for the first time the Remington Junior, and found it to be the very thing I wanted; and that was a typewriter built simpler and not incumbered with fixtures not needed for writing ordinary manuscript or letters."

The man who wrote this is the postmaster of a small Southern town. He is only one of thousands who have recently bought a Remington Junior. But his reasons apply to everybody—they apply to YOU.

MAJESTIC THEATRE
TODAY

THE GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME

In producing the screen version of this first and greatest success of David Belasco, neither effort nor money has been spared.

The scenes of the play are laid in and around a lonely frontier army post in the old Indian days, and in order that the vivid atmosphere of the piece be retained to the fullest extent, the entire company was sent to Fort Assinaboine, Montana.

There, amidst the rugged western scenery, with real cavalry troopers, and with real Indians the scenes of this virile military drama were enacted for the camera.

Robert Edison, who has been secured to play the lead in "The Girl I Left Behind Me," is universally known to the theatre-going public, as the star of many Broadway successes.

As Lieutenant Hawksworth in the present production Mr. Edeson has a part well fitted to his exceptional abilities, and the dashing manly courage with which the young officer meets the many difficulties and dangers that confront him make a way for him into the heart of the spectator as well as into the heart of the heroine, who is the most charmingly portrayed by Claire Whitney, the talented leading lady of the William Fox stock company.

THEATRES

ALVIN—PITTSBURG

Marie Dressler, in her clever farce, "A Mix Up," will return to the Alvin week of April 19. This is the first play in which Miss Dressler has appeared without music, for, though the celebrated comedienne has heretofore been identified with big musical extravaganzas, she decided this year to assume a role which is perhaps a shade more ambitious than anything she has hitherto undertaken. The cast will be the same as was seen during the former engagement and will include Bert Lytell, Miss Evelyn Vaughn, Robert Ober, Sarah McVicker, Albert Reed, Julia Blanc, others. There will be the regular Wednesday and Saturday night matinees.

GRAND—PITTSBURG.

The second of the "five wonderful weeks," which mark the beginning of the spring season of vaudeville at the Grand Opera house, begins on next Monday afternoon, April 19 with Mrs. Leslie Carter and her company heading a long and varied program. A tabloid version of her most celebrated success, "Zaza" has been chosen by the supreme emotional actress for her initial tour in the varities. Mrs. Carter, who collaborated with David Belasco in the English translation of "Zaza" from the French by Pierre Burton, has made this adaptation and condensation into a single act. It is gratifying to note that in keeping with his policy, Mr. David has assembled a groupe of the highest grade attractions to surround Mrs. Carter in the shows of the forthcoming week. He has secured Hans Kronold, an internationally popular cellist recognized by critics as one of the best contemporary musicians, and artist from the concert stage who ranks with Gerardy. Baby Helen, the most remarkable child performer of recent years, is another feature attraction. She is a sort of miniature Tetrazzini, who sings F above high C. Harry and Eva Puck, the former America's youngest song composer will play "Sunshine and Showers," a sort of musical comedy melange. From the Pacific coast comes Joseph Cole and Gertrude Dehahy, who are to the west what Mr. and Mrs. Castle and Maurice and Walton are to the east. A variety of other features and motion pictures will complete the bill for Carter week.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Sufferers from Tuberculosis often think that medicine will not help them fresh air, regular habits and good food and in restoring health but more is often needed. Many have been restored to health by Lekman's Alterative Read this.—

Weldon, Ill.

"Gentlemen—Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Tuberculosis (bacilli were found). In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 102 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Lekman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Now I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator." (Abbreviated).

RISE OF THE KRUPPS.

The Great German Gun Works Started In a Small Iron Foundry.

The famous German armament firm of Krupp, which is the greatest industrial enterprise in the world in the hands of a private firm, had its beginning in a small iron foundry which Friedrich Krupp established in the early years of the last century.

For thirty years he had to cope with constant bankruptcy and other difficulties, and the reputation of Krupp, which now fills the world, is said to have originated with a block of steel which he showed at the London exhibition of 1851.

It was the rise of Prussia into a military power of the first rank, however, followed by the unification of Germany and the consequent creation of the vast German army, which gave the firm its great opportunity, and ultimately its almost unexampled prosperity, as the manufacturers of artillery and ammunition.

Other powers, not only in Europe, but eventually in Asia and on the American continent, followed the German example in their attempts to perfect their armaments, and Krupp received a great part of their orders. The business representation of the great firm was extended throughout the world and assumed the dimensions of the diplomatic service of a government.—London Answers.

A LAND OF EXTREMES.

Peru's Violent Contrasts in Climate, Altitude and Scenery.

Were I to be exiled and confined for the rest of my life to one country I should choose Peru.

Here is every altitude, every climate, every scene. Coastal Peru is an Egypt, central Peru a Tibet, eastern Peru a Kongo country. The lifeless desert and the teeming jungle, the hottest lowlands and the bleakest highlands, heaven piercing peaks and rivers racing through canyons—all are of Peru.

Here one meets with the highest village, the highest mines, the highest steamboat navigation. The crassest heathenism flourishes two days in the saddle from noble cathedrals, and the bustling ports are counterpoised by secluded inland towns where the past lies miraculously preserved, like the mummy of the saint in a crypt.

In the year 2000, when the Tyrol and the Abruzzi, Dalmatia and Carinthia, have lost their old world character, travelers may be seeking the towns hidden away in the Andes—Cajamarca, Huancavelica, Andahuaylas and Ayacucho—for rare bits of lustrous medieval life untarnished by the breath of modernism.—From "South of Panama," by Edward Alsworth Ross, in Century Magazine.

Don'ts.

Don't attempt to punish all your enemies at once. You can't do a large business with a small capital. Don't say "I told you so." Two to one you never said a word about it. Don't worry about another man's business. A little selfishness is sometimes commendable. Don't imagine that you can correct all the evils in the world. A grain of sand is not prominent in a desert. Don't mourn over fancied grievances. Bide your time and real sorrow will come. Don't throw dust in your teacher's eyes. It will only injure the pupil. Don't worry about the ice crop. Keep cool and you will have enough. Don't borrow a coach to please your wife. Better make her a little sulky. Don't imagine that everything is weakening. Butter is strong in this market. Don't publish your acts of charity. The Lord will keep the account straight. Don't color meerschaums for a living. It is simply dyeing by inches.—Mark Twain.

Hardly an Improvement.

Duncan's wife had the reputation of being a first class shrew. When Duncan died his neighbors put a tombstone over his grave, with the epitaph, "Asleep in Peace."

Widow Duncan was wild. It was meant as a slam at her, and she knew it was. It meant that she did not let him sleep in peace when alive.

The neighbors assured her that it was not meant that way.

"Then it ought to say so."

To please her they got a stonecutter to add, "We all believe that he did have peace here—when he slept."

Most Restful Position.

Sitting in a chair or reclining on a lounge is not the most restful position, though it does ease certain portions of the anatomy. But why leave others strained? If a person must stand much the best rest is obtained by lying for a few minutes on the back, with the feet higher than the head. This eases strain on the overtaxed leg muscles and those of the feet also.—Chicago News.

DISPATCH TO PUBLISH HISTORY PREPARED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

Beginning next Monday, April 19, The Pittsburg Dispatch will publish exclusively President Wilson's "History of the American People" in consecutive installments. It is a connected story, interesting and complete, of the time of discovery and settlement of the very recent years.

At an expenditure of from 10 to 15 minutes a day this series will familiarize you with the history of America, and by the time it is ended you will know as much about the growth, development and government of our country as a college graduate.

The younger members of the family will find this daily history an aid in their school and college studies, their estimate on the past records of and look out for it each day. The older members of the family will be able to refresh their memory by devoting only a few minutes each day.

Every member should grasp this opportunity to study the history of their country. Remember, your teacher will be the President of the United States and that it will not cost you a penny. Don't miss the first lesson, Monday, April 19, in The Pittsburg Dispatch. Order the paper now, so you will be sure of getting the first of the series.

Military Music.

"No one in time of peace can understand what war is," writes Rev. Charles L. Jefferson in the Woman's Home Companion. "We may prepare for it, but we do not realize what it is we are preparing for. Military preparations are quite interesting, even exciting. Boys and girls are always fascinated by the paraphernalia of battle. Never have the instruments of war been so intricate and sparkling as now. All the trappings of the military world are alluring.

"Military music is full of piercing notes which set the corpuscles of the blood dancing. But military music is not the music of war. The music of war is the groans of wounded and dying men and the sobs of broken hearted women. Military music is one of the embroidered veils thrown over the face of war to make boys think that war is glorious."

A Mulberry Tree Legend.

The mulberry, wisest of trees," as Pliny termed it, really "likes" London and thrives profusely even in the grounds of the Charterhouse, at murky Smithfield. London mulberry trees are mainly derived from a tad of James I., who wanted to found a silk growing industry. With the proverbial folly of a pedant the British Solomon introduced the black mulberry, disliked by silkworms, instead of the white variety, which forms their food. The black mulberry had been planted by Cardinal Pole at Lambeth in 1555, and there were still older specimens in the garden of Syon House. According to a pretty Greek legend all mulberries were originally white, but a mulberry tree was growing beside "Ninus's tomb" when Pyramus and Thisbe died there, and the blood of the lovers turned the fruit to its present color.

The Riddle Of the Sphinx

Has never been solved. Perhaps it was not much of a riddle, and it is not likely that the solution would be worth while. But the riddle of job printing has been solved, and the answer is found in our Job Department. Your troubles will be over if you will put them on us.
